Judge ejects Fromme from court

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, charged with trying to assassinate President Ford, was ejected from a federal courtroom during her arraignment today after she demanded that the judge "save the Redwood trees" and told him: "The gun is pointed, your honor."

Miss Fromme, clad in the red "nun's robe" she has worn in dedication to her leader, convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, repeated twice, "The gun is pointed." Then she told the judge, "Whether it goes off is up to you."

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride, presiding over the arraignment, ordered her removed from the courtroom when she refused to stop a rambling dissertation on the need to save Redwood trees.

She was taken from the courtroom without entering a plea to the federal attempted assassination charge. Miss Fromme was seized by Secret Service agents last Friday after she pointed a .45-caliber semi-automatic pistol at Ford from a distance of only two feet.

An agent wrested the weapon from her. Authorities said there were four live cartridges in the magazine but none in the firing chamber.

At today's proceeding, the judge tried to discourage Miss Fromme, 26, from speaking out, telling her she might prejudice her chance of a fair trial. He urged against any political statements.

But Miss Fromme insisted on speaking.

"There is an army of young people and children who want to clean up this earth, the Redwood trees," she began. As the judge interrupted, she went on, "I want you to order the corps of government engineers to buy up the parks."

The judge told her that her statements had nothing to do with her trial, but Miss Fromme declared, "You have jurisdiction over the Redwood trees. Will you think about it?"

The judge said he would, but it would not influence his judgment in the case.

Then she mentioned the trees again and declared, "The gun is pointed, your honor. The gun is pointed. Whether it goes off is up to you."

At that point MacBride ordered her removed from the courtroom.

The red-haired, freckle-faced defendant is being held in Sacramento County Jail in lieu of bond of $1 million. She has indicated she may contend at her trial that she never intended to kill Ford.

Manson trial attorney Daye Shinn, who visited Miss Fromme in jail on Monday, said she told him that all she was trying to do was gain attention for Manson, now serving a life term at San Quentin prison for the 1969 murder of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

In recent months, Miss Fromme has conducted a vocal campaign to win a new trial for Manson, saying he was unjustly convicted.

Although the indictment names only Miss Fromme, Keyes said he has not discounted the possibility of a conspiracy. He said "the investigation is continuing."

Keyes and other officials were barred under an order by MacBride from commenting on evidence presented to the grand jury. But it was learned the panel heard from some 15 witnesses.

One, Dennis Warren, 30, a photographer who is a neighbor of Miss Fromme, said witnesses were assembled at the FBI office about six miles away and taken to the court house in a convoy of cars.

"I would say there were probably 100 agents around," he said. "We were led down a maze of corridors. There were six to eight locked doors that we had to go through."

Keyes said the circuitous route was arranged because "there was concern expressed by potential witnesses that they didn't want to be identified." He declined to say if they feared they were in danger.

Among those believed to have testified was Secret Service Agent Larry Buendorf, who grabbed Miss Fromme.

Another witness was Harold Eugene Boro, a 66-year-old grandfather who owned the gun. Boro, a retired civil service worker, has been identified by a federal official as a "sugar daddy" to Miss Fromme and Miss Good.

However, authorities said the gun has no criminal history and they do not contemplate filing any charges against Boro.

'People's Court' on polluters

Mansonite says scores marked for death

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) —

Sandra Good, a disciple of mass murderer Charles Manson, says a "People's Court" has marked for assassination scores of business executives whose firms pollute the environment.

The FBI and local police declined to comment on whether Miss Good's remarks violated any law. Both the FBI and police said they couldn't comment because of a gag order imposed in the trial of another Manson family member, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme. Miss Fromme, who is Miss Good's roommate, is charged with attempting to assassinate President Ford.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman said attempts against the lives of private individuals normally would be covered by state rather than federal law. He said as a "curbstone opinion" the Civil Rights Act might be involved under a section that pertains to an individual's right to live.

Meanwhile, a Dow Chemical Co. spokesman disclosed that one of its executives had received a threatening telephone call from a purported Manson family member. The spokesman, who declined to identify the executive, said the caller was a woman.

The FBI in Detroit said it was investigating to determine whether a federal offense was involved in connection with the reported threat to the Dow official because the incident apparently involved a call across state lines.

And California Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger revealed that Manson had threatened four years ago to send "five people to assassinate President Nixon and (then Gov. Ronald) Reagan."

Reagan said he and his family were placed under heavy guard in his last year as governor because of the threats.

In an interview in her apartment, Miss Good gave The Associated Press a list of about 75 names of persons she said were marked for death. She identified them as executives primarily in the power, lumber, oil, food and chemical industries.

Miss Good gave the AP a statement saying, "The International Peoples' Court of Retribution is a wave of assassins. It is made up of several thousand people throughout the world who love the earth, the children and their own lives. They have been silently watching executives and chairmen of boards—and their wives—of companies and industries that in any way harm the air, water, earth and wildlife."

She declined to say where the names came from. She said the wives of executives who are marked for death are being watched as they keep social dates.

Asked who the assassins are, she said "they're underground."

Asked who would order the killings, she said, "They move of their own accord—necessity dictates policy."

The names on the list ranged from some in Sacramento with home addresses to single entries such as "all automobile companies" and "General Electric—nuclear plants."

In an interview with AP Radio, Miss Good said that executives of any company which destroys the earth, water, trees, air or wildlife are potential targets of assassination.

She said executives of "Exxon, ITT, Standard Oil, Union Oil, lumber company executives, Gulf Oil, must get out the country or you'll be killed... We want to live, you maggots, you monsters. Get out of the country or you'll be killed."

The six businessmen Miss Good named in her interview were:

Floyd Lewis of New Orleans, president of Middle South Utilities, Inc., which the woman said threatened the people by planning to build nuclear reactors; Gordon Ryan of New Orleans, an attorney and executive with Starr Broadcasting Co.; Fred Kaiser of Atlanta, a candy manufacturer; Herbert Grey of Atlanta; William Berin of Atlanta; and Richard Davis of Houston, Tex., an oilman.

Dixon boy, 6, dies after being hit by car near home

A 6-year-old Dixon boy, returning home from school, died Wednesday afternoon after being struck by a car.

David Lee Ragan, 6, 826 Washington Ave., was walking home from Washington School, where he attended first grade.

According to reports, the Ragan lad ran across Washington Avenue into the path of a Chevrolet Vega driven by Diana L. Contreras, 19, 1513 W. Ninth St. He was struck by the middle of the front end of the car. The youth was thrown five feet away from the point of impact.

The accident took place shortly before 4 p.m. on the 800 block of Washington Avenue, in front of the boy's residence, two blocks north of the school. Contreras' car was travelling northbound at an estimated speed of 20 miles per hour in a school zone when the mishap occurred.

The Ragan boy was rushed to KSB Hospital by the emergency vehicle of the Dixon Fire Department. He died 2½ hours after the mishap.

The youth's death has been attributed to internal injuries he received from the impact. Lee County Coroner Robert Preston said that an inquest will be scheduled at a later date.

David's sister, Penny, age 10, and Mark Mull, age 8, 709 E. Graham, were with him at the time of the accident.

David, the son of Floretta Heather Ragan and Walter L. Ragan Jr., was born Sept. 28, 1968 in Dixon.

His maternal grandparents preceded him in death.

Survivors include his parents, both of Dixon; two brothers, Jeffery Allen and Scott Allen, both at home; two sisters, Penny Mae and Candi Marie, both at home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ragan Sr., Franklin Grove; and his paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Bess Ragan, West Frankfort.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the Preston Funeral Home with Jack Smith, lay pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

Visitation will be held after 1 p.m. Friday at the funeral home.

David still not served with subpoena

Brian David, one of two special prosecutors working in Dixon in an investigation of voting irregularities in the April 15 city election, still has not been served with a subpoena as defendant in a petition for injunction in the probe.

The petition, filed by Marilyn Trulock for her son, Ted Trulock Jr., named Lee County State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward, Charles Levad, another of the special prosecutors assigned here by the office of the Illinois Attorney General, and David as defendants.

Ward and Levad have been served with subpoenas. Since David has not been available for service, the law firm of Dixon, Devine, Ray and Morin, representing the Trulocks, will insert a legal advertisement in Friday's Telegraph, notifying David that the injunction suit has been filed.

"It's not an unusual action," Henry Dixon, of the law firm said today. "It's done all the time in different kinds of cases."

Robbery suspects nabbed after air-ground search

OREGON — An air and ground search Wednesday afternoon resulted in the arrest of two youths in connection with a mid-afternoon armed robbery at a rural Monroe Center service station.

Dave Egeland, owner of Bert's Gas for Less told Ogle County Sheriff's Deputies a young man came into his station at 2 p.m., pointed a gun toward him and demanded his money. Egeland said the youth wore a nylon stocking over his head and face. After taking $515 in currency, the youth went out the door and took Egeland's car, a 1970 Ford.

The suspect fled the station traveling east on Ill. 72. Moments after the robbery, a customer, who drove into the station, spotted Egeland's car and followed. The unidentified customer said he saw the driver of the Ford attempt to turn off the highway onto Kilbuck Road. The youth lost control of the car and crashed into a ditch. He then fled from the car on foot into a cornfield.

Sheriff's Deputies, Deputy Reserves, Rochelle and State Police and DeKalb County Sheriff's Deputies sealed off the area while a State Police helicopter, furnished by Hendrickson's Flying Service, searched by air.

At 5:30 p.m. the suspect, Allen D. Rinehart, 17, Stillman Valley was apprehended by sheriff's deputies while he walked along a back road just east of Monroe Center. Rinehart was charged after he led deputies to a secluded area where he said he hid the money, a gun and a jacket he wore. A 16 year-old boy, identified as Randy Dale Simplot, rural Monroe Center was charged as an accomplice to the crime after authorities learned that he allegedly furnished the jacket and gun used in the crime.

Rinehart was being held in Ogle County Jail on felony charges of armed robbery and auto theft. He was scheduled to appear for arraignment today before Associate Judge Alan Cargerman. Simplot was scheduled to appear in juvenile court at a later date.

Sheriff Jerry Brooks praised the cooperative effort of the various law enforcement agencies participating in the apprehension and the cooperation of many residents in the area who assisted in the search.

Egeland was not injured during the crime, authorities said. The type of weapon used and whether it was loaded, was not known.

Take heart duck hunters

State legislature didn't forget you

By WAYNE LYON

If you talk much with hunters and fishermen around these parts, you hear one common phrase running through most of the conversations—"The state doesn't do anything for us."

Well, duck hunters, you can take heart, the Illinois General Assembly did not forget you in the past session. The men who make your state laws passed a bill, which was signed by Gov. Dan Walker, tacking $5.25 to the cost of hunting waterfowl.

You'll have to open your purse strings for a State Migratory Waterfowl Stamp to go along with the regular state hunting license ($3.25) and Federal Migratory Waterfowl Stamp ($5). It adds up to a healthy $13.50.

The new state stamps will go on sale by Oct. 1 and will be available at the outlets where regular hunting licenses are sold.

The money derived from the sales of stamps is to be split evenly between habitat improvement in Illinois and the improvement of breeding grounds in Canada.

The extra stamp will be required only during the regular waterfowl season and not the special teal season which is scheduled to open Saturday and run through Sept. 21.

The regular duck season in Illinois will be 50-days long, starting at noon on Oct. 22 and continuing through Dec. 10.

Goose hunters will have 70 days to shoot.

The hunting for them won't be over until Dec. 30.

Illinois will remain on the point system for computing the daily bag limits on ducks.

Various ducks of various sexes add up differently in point values. If you're not quick in addition, maybe a pocket calculator will help.

Redhead ducks score 100 points. Mallard hens, wood ducks, hooded mergansers and black ducks are counted 90 points.

Score 35 points for mallard drakes, wigons, ringnecks, ruddy ducks, goldeneyes, buffleheads, oldsquaws, scoters and all mergansers except the hooded variety.

The bargain basement ducks, worth 10 points each, are pintails, blue-wing and green-wing teals, gadwalls, shovellers and scaups.

Now the point system works this way: The daily limit is achieved when the value of the last bird taken equals or exceeds 100 points.

In a theoretical situation, one could bag two mallard drakes (70 points); nail a couple of pintails for 20 points and then blast a mallard hen or redhead and come up with 180 or 190 points.

This brings to mind an interesting question. How does a conservation agent know you killed that high-point bird last?

The possession limit is not to exceed two days' bag limits. We'll leave it to you to figure out how many ducks that may be.

Make people self-reliant: HEW chief

(Reprinted from Human Events)

The new secretary of health, education and welfare, F. David Mathews, is said to be both politically and philosophically inscrutable—he is affiliated with no political party and he rejects the labels "liberal" or "conservative," terms he says are not very useful. But Mathews has said: "The basic principle of all public policy should be that the first responsibility of government is to make people self-reliant."

Whether Mathews really believes this should be demonstrated within the next month, when he will rule on the controversial question: should strikers be allowed to get welfare payments?

This hot potato was dropped in Mathews' lap by the outgoing head of HEW, Caspar Weinberger, who proposed regulations denying welfare benefits to strikers who are disqualified by state law from receiving unemployment compensation. Only New York, Rhode Island and Hawaii allow strikers to receive such jobless aid.

The pro-side of this debate is argued, not surprisingly, by AFL-CIO President George Meany, who says: "It is our position that welfare benefits should be available to citizens who are demonstrably in need without regard for the cause of that need. We firmly oppose the concept of punishing children because their father is exercising the legal right to strike."

But the need-regardless-of-cause argument makes no sense.

Whether one is entitled to welfare or not should be directly related to how one gets in a situation where public assistance is required.

If an individual is in a jam through no fault of his own, obviously this kind of case argues much more strongly for welfare than an individual, such as a striker, who voluntarily puts himself in a jam. While this type of person may technically be covered by the letter of most of our welfare laws, he is clearly outside the spirit of most of these programs.

As for the possibility of their wives or children starving to death if strikers can't go on welfare, this argument also is unconvincing. Union members are the elite of our labor force with $6,000 a year considered almost poverty-stricken, $10,000 a year common, and $15,000 a year not at all rare.

In one of the most detailed reports on the subject to date, "Welfare and Strikes," published by the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, Armand Thieblot Jr. and Ronald Cowin write:

"Under these circumstances, a person would have to be positively clever as well as friendless and imprudent to starve . . . it does seem that the pattern of industrial sociology which to any degree admitted the possibility of starvation of striking workers has been gone, quite fortunately, for 30 years."

Giving strikers welfare would, in addition, weight the supposedly free collective bargaining process in favor of labor against management. It would also be an incentive to strike and would prolong strikes. As authors Thieblot and Cowin note:

"If union officials know that the public, rather than the union treasury, will be responsible for the economic security of their members while on strike, and if such benefits preclude a political reaction of union members and their wives against the economic losses stemming from a strike, then obviously strikes can be undertaken more lightly."

"The overwhelming weight of opinions unearthed by our studies, including those of strikers, union officials, and management personnel, was that the payment of tax-supported benefits to strikers, by greatly reducing the economic pressures on those strikers, substantially diminished the back pressures from union members to settle and thereby made strikes last longer."

The authors conclude: paying welfare benefits to strikers is an unwarranted imposition on the public treasury and the private good.

Whether the new head of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will reach this same conclusion remains to be seen. But he should. As the federal deficit climbs toward the $100-billion mark, the last thing we need are more people on the welfare rolls, people who not only are able to work but were working, yet voluntarily chose to stop working.

SHORT RIBS

Communism disillusions Cleaver

Fugitive Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver, who fled this country for Cuba in 1969, now wants to return. In a remarkable interview published in Rolling Stone, Cleaver explains his disillusionment with a Communist system that has imposed on people "the most oppressive regimes in the history of the world." Cleaver still considers himself a leftist, but he is bitter at the repression he witnessed as he traveled throughout the Communist world—from Cuba to Algeria to China to North Korea to North Vietnam.

When Cleaver fled to Cuba in December 1969, he did so with the intention of setting up a "liberation office" that would telegraph to the world the problems and struggles of black people in America. Plans for such an office had been discussed in New York by Black Panther leaders and members of the Cuban United Nations mission.

Such an office never really got off the ground. Cleaver felt that he was being lied to by Castro officials, and he was kept under surveillance by the Cuban secret police. Finally, Cleaver left Cuba for Algeria. He left bitter at the way the Cubans used American radicals, encouraging them to engage in violent revolution.

"I hold the Cubans fully responsible for the crazy tangent that sent the Weathermen into their whole violent trip," Cleaver says. "These kids would come down there like I had—in awe over Fidel and Che and the Revolution. The Cubans would show them the island, maybe give them experience in the fields and then, like for dessert, they would have this crazy revolutionary dude address the group on the subject of how to carry out the revolution in America. Obviously, the Cubans were powerless to do anything about the U.S. but these students weren't, and so the Cubans programmed them in a very cynical way."

Cleaver said the Americans were urged to blow up electric stations and power stations, to engage in "spontaneous outbreaks of disorder and violence to create a revolutionary atmosphere." And many, particularly the Weathermen, returned home to do just that.

Some of the most astounding comments made by Cleaver deal with the military. "After all my travels and seeing the Socialists' world up very close, really seeing how the Soviet Union and China function, well, I now think that the U.S. should be second to none militarily, that we have to strengthen, not demise our military."

Cleaver sees an East-West showdown ahead and says the United States must beef up its defenses. If not, he says, "you're just going to get kicked in the ass. And I'm tired of getting kicked in the ass."

In the old days, Cleaver saw the enemy as "U.S. imperialism." Now he sees it as the Soviet Union. And he cannot fathom the Administration's policy of detente. "Instead of moving toward detente with the Soviet Union, I think we should be resolutely opposed to the present regime. I want to see the American establishment's power supporting people who are being f . . . over in the world."

To Cleaver, it is "treasonable to make concessions to the Soviet Union . . . The stuff we are saying, that Kissinger is saying, about not interfering with the internal affairs of the Soviet Union, well, that sounds like Chamberlain's kissing Hitler's ass all over again. If we are truly the force for democracy in the world, then we have an obligation to help in the disintegration of the totalitarian Soviet regime."

At one point, Cleaver's interviewer refers to the U.S. military as "madmen." Not so, says Cleaver. "They're not madmen!" But the interviewer persists, asserting they are "as evil as the Soviets." He bemoans the CIA as being made up of "paranoid Commie-under-the-rug types."

Cleaver's answer is succinct: "But there were Communists under the rug."

REFLECTIONS—Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky in 1972 met each other across a chess board in Greenland to prove who was the best chess player in the world under the ever-seeing eye of TV which beamed the picture around the globe.

The televised matchup of Fischer and Spassky did for chess what the TV coverage of the ballyhooed tennis match between Billie Jean King against Bobby Riggs in which the queen of tennis literally volleyed Riggs off the court.

Each set off a craze of interest in chess and tennis and resulted in all sorts of people diligently studying chess figures positioned on a board and kicked off the formation of the professional World Tennis Association.

Spassky, a Russian, probably was not the favorite of many Western viewers and he rather ignominiously lost to Fischer, a New Yorker, who thusly claimed the world title held by the Russian.

Chess players are supposed to resemble Star Trek's Mr. Spock, who is totally controlled by his reason and always acts completely logically.

Spassky, however, has hit news pages throughout the world, not chronicling a comeback of a fallen chess champion, but as a love-sick swain who is being thwarted by the intransigence of his own government and probably in collusion with the French government.

Chess player Spassky loves Marina Stcherbatcheff and she loves Boris. They want to get married.

What stops them? The Russian government will not give its blessing for them to be wedded before Nov. 11, and Marina's employer, the French Embassy, has ordered her to leave her position by Sept. 30, two years before her contract expires, and immediately return to France.

They have asked Russian authorities for permission to marry before this date so she can stay in the Mother Country as a woman married to a Soviet citizen.

Boris and Marina have pointed out the European Security Conference declaration signed in Helsinki last summer called on nations to ease the barriers for couples who wish to cross national boundaries by marriage.

The Moscow marriage bureau was unromantic and unmoved.

Boris is checkmated and Marina weeps.

It is the custom of Gov. Daniel Walker's information service to send along his message when he signs or vetoes bills sent to him from the General Assembly.

These missives lay out the governor's reasoning and, if it is one which gets his signature, the "release" reads like Gov. Walker has done the populace a particular favor by inking the bill into law.

If it is one which he vetoes, the message is a blast at the General Assembly and exhibits the governor as being the savior of the general welfare of the people.

The paper mill of the information service is strangely silent on some decisions by the governor concerning legislation which crosses his desk.

A recent case in point is his quiet veto of a bill which was designed to restore the accountability in spending of state funds.

The bill which went through the House 126 to 0 and the Senate by 53 to 1 was aimed at correcting the abuses by the Executive Department revealed last winter by charging to some departmental budgets the salaries for persons who were not working there.

Gov. Walker has demonstrated he just cannot believe in full accountability to the people by vetoing this legislation regardless of what he says.

Pay hike up Congress' image?

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—"I attempted to make an amendment on the floor of the House (of Representatives) to make the salary of congressmen a minimum of $5,000 and a maximum of $50,000, and provided that every member should come in at the beginning of the session and sign an affidavit as to what he thought he was worth within that range, and that is what he would be paid."

Such was the cynical reaction of Congressman Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) to the debate on raising congressional salaries by providing every member and his staff with regular automatic cost of living increases from here on out—so that they never again will personally feel the effects of inflation, so worrisome in the lives of all the rest of us, their constituents. Hays, nevertheless, voted for the raise.

As has been reported, this perpetual cost of living increment, along with similar favors for federal judges, several thousand top government officials and 600 generals, was so unobtrusively tracked on to a minor Post Office bill and so carefully shepherded by Senate and House leaders that passage was quick and with little debate.

The entire action was carefully orchestrated to be introduced and passed before public opinion was aroused and thousands of nasty editorials written—a development which could have killed the raises aborning.

In the midst of the short debate, Representative Bauman (R-Md.), observed in a session with his colleagues "... you know what is happening in this circle of canary-eating grins ..."

But the ayes had it. Sen. Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) argued that the Congress had to do something "to help those members who are barely getting along with their $42,500 salary ..."

Congressman Peter Peyser (R-N.Y.), on the House side, said that the economics of being a congressman "are murder." He indicated that coming to Congress had been an economic disaster for him, but that he was willing to make this sacrifice in the public good. However, he wanted the raise.

One representative emphasized that even the boost being voted would not catch congressmen up with the 40 some per cent cost of living increase since their last raise.

A number of congressmen, who will remain nameless, piously argued they did not want or need the increase but were going to vote for it. Since other officials were getting increases, they said, it would be unfair for Congressmen not to vote equal benefits for themselves. It would smack of discrimination.

It was also argued that if congressmen didn't vote raises for themselves, they might in due time have some staff members earning more than congressmen.

But the ultimate rationalization was put forward by Rep. Abner J. Mikva (D-Ill.), who, noting that only 15 per cent of those questioned in a recent poll approved of the way Congress has been acting, argued that the low salaries is the cause of the low esteem in which senators and representatives are held. The solution, and the key to greater respect, Mikva indicated, was to raise congressional pay.

With these compelling arguments before them, the Senate voted the raised by 58 to 29 and the House by a slippery 214 to 213. One man, Rep. Herbert Burke (R-Fla.) changed his vote to aye in midstream, saving the day for those who believed themselves overworked and under paid.

The majority was in no mood to listen to those who argued caution. Rep. William Armstrong (R-Colo.) expressed the view of a minority when he asked "... are we going to insulate ourselves from the concerns of our constituents? We are so pampered and so coddled and so isolated from the day-to-day concerns ... (of) our people at home ... it becomes almost impossible for us to represent them."

I concur.

TV debut tonight for Ellery Queen

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "Ellery Queen" starts crime-solving tonight. And ABC will pour "On the Rocks," a chuckling convict series that tries to be the flip side of the preceding "Barney Miller" cop comedy.

NBC's new entry is old hash but fun to watch. ABC's offering, while funny in spots, starts slowly. Like "Barney Miller," it may need a few shows before the real laughs start rolling.

"Ellery Queen" stars Jim Hutton as the famed, absent-minded mystery writer who is always summoned by his father, the New York police inspector — David Wayne — to solve baffling crimes.

An earlier EQ model was a series in 1950. In tonight's show, matters start four years earlier with a good-natured yarn about the demise of a bad-tempered millionaire on New Year's Eve.

The millionaire has brought his son, his son's fiancée, a nephew, a business associate, a secretary and her fiancée to a gala party at a plush Gotham hotel where Guy Lombardo's band is playing.

The millionaire begins railing at his guests. For starters, he accuses his son's fiancée, a purportedly titled English widow, of being a gold-digger with a promiscuous past.

After denouncing them all as thieves, crooks or disloyal scoundrels, he says he's cutting them all out of his will that night, and departs to call his lawyer from the phone booth at the hotel.

He's found dead, of course, by Inspector Queen, who also is attending the hotel party and has gone to phone Ellery, who was to attend the party but fell asleep at home.

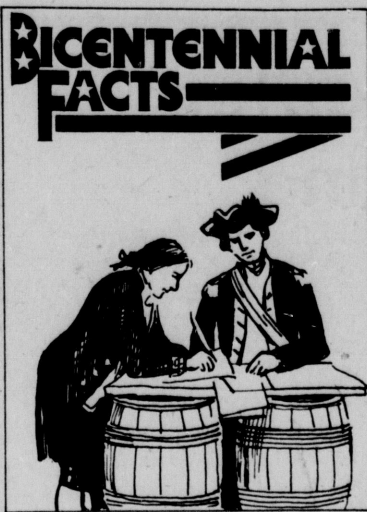

The plot goes round and round, with all the suspects herded into a room for the grand finale you know is coming when Ellery Queen wakes up and solves the crime just as 1947 rolls in.

ABC's "On the Rocks" con-

HEIRPORT. Life starts here; so does the news. And newspapers chronicle the events from this point forward. Newspapers are the truly local news medium.

Not having the authority to draft men for military service, Congress and the states used bounties to induce voluntary enlistment. The states started using this device early in the Revolutionary War, and Gen. Washington soon realized that the bounty system was a necessary evil. He recommended that recruits be offered "a good bounty" and at least 100 or 150 acres of land, a suit of clothes and a blanket for enlisting. The World Almanac notes.

Livestock production in Korea expanding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Livestock production has been expanding rapidly in the Republic of Korea as the result of massive help from the Korean government, meaning that U.S. exports of feed grain to that country are expected to increase.

The U.S. Feed Grains Council, a privately supported market development agency, says that although still in its infancy, the South Korean livestock sector is producing about 40 per cent more meat per animal than it was 14 years ago.

"More Korean livestock farmers are using better management techniques and high-energy feed, and the number of larger farms run by such farmers is increasing," the council said in its current newsletter.

"Last year, livestock farmers were down in the mouth. High feed prices and the general economic recession were giving them a bad time," the council said. "Morale is rising now along with farm livestock prices."

Korea ranks among the top 10 foreign customers of American farmers, buying about $885 million worth of grain, cotton and other commodities in the fiscal year ended June 30, up from $661 million in 1973-74, according to Agriculture Department figures.

Part of the reason for the development has been the immense amount of U.S. aid poured into the country since the Korean War ended more than 20 years ago.

But one reason lately has been the preferred treatment given livestock producers by the Korean government.

Michel-Haverland wedding

Miss Beverly Michel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Michel, Dixon, and Frederick K. Haverland, son of Mrs. Sarah Haverland, Como, were united in marriage recently at St. Anne's Catholic Church, Dixon.

The Rev. John Reuland, pastor at St. Anne's, performed the nuptial ceremony. Miss Kay Nolop, Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. John Michel, Rockford, were vocalists. Miss Nolop also played the guitar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white organdy gown over taffeta, accented with Venice lace. The gown featured white fluted organdy on a V-neckline, pin-tucked Venice lace adorned the empire bodice and her bishop sleeves were accented with lace and organdy fluting. The full skirt was iced with lace flowers and had a deep lace flounce with a chapel train. She wore a matching veil and carried a bouquet of stephanotis, coral roses, carnations and ivy.

Serving as her sister's maid of honor was Miss Joan Michel, Dixon, who wore a floor-length sleeveless mint-green gown with embroidered V-neckline. She wore a white hat and gloves and carried a nosegay of daisies, roses, carnations and baby's breath with matching ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Cheshier, Dixon, and Miss Diane Scarbrough, Skokie. Their gowns were styled identically to the maid of honor's, in a coral color.

Best man was Eugene Haverland, brother of the groom from Como. Kenneth Bohm and Carlos Ortiz, both of Sterling, were groomsmen. Robert Scarbrough, Skokie, and Darold Robinson, Sterling, seated guests.

Little Miss Pamela Nichols, Rockford, was flower girl. She wore a long green dress with puffed sleeves and carried a basket of coral rose petals. James Michel was the ringbearer.

Following a reception at the church was a buffet dinner in the bride's parents' home. Assisting were Mrs. Barbara Scarbrough, Skokie; Mrs. Joseph Lynch, Dixon; Mrs. Leon Nichols and Mrs. Gary Michel, Rockford; Misses Patty and Sheryl Lynch, Dixon, Miss Brenda Floyd, Mascutah, and Mrs. Nick Caudillo, Sterling.

Since their honeymoon to Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Haverland have been residing in Tiskilwa. Mrs. Haverland is a teacher in Tonica and Mr. Haverland is a K-Mart automotive mechanic in Sterling.

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK HAVERLAND

Burden-Reuter wedding

Miss Grayce Lee Burden, daughter of Mr. Martin Burden, Ohio, and the late Mrs. Elsie Burden, and Dennis John Reuter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Reuter Sr., Dixon, were united in marriage in an open church wedding by the Rev. Robert Zetterberg at the Bethel Evangelical Congregational Church Aug. 16.

Tom Saunders and Dean Anderson were soloists and Mrs. Myrtle Tracy, aunt of the groom, was the organist.

The altar was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and aqua-tinted daisy mums. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father in a gown of soft polyester organza, lined in acetate taffeta, featuring lace-capped bishop sleeves and a full chapel train. The skirt and hemline were trimmed with lace. A Camelot lace cap secured a chapel-length mantilla. Her bouquet was a combination of white carnations, white mums, aqua-tinted daisy mums and stephanotis.

Miss Cindy Albright, Dixon, was maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaid was Miss Debbie Jamison, Sterling, and Lisa Reuter, sister of the groom, was junior bridesmaid. Their identical gowns were soft aqua knit crepe, styled with a V-neckline, empire waist and cape sleeves trimmed with lace. Their gowns featured open sun-backs with long sashes across the back and waist. The attendants wore white sheer picture hats with aqua ribbon and carried bouquets identical to the bride's with long aqua streamers.

Serving as best man was James Merriman. Groomsmen were Rick Reuter, brother of the groom, and Brad Albrecht, cousin of the groom from Sterling. Ushers were Randy and Jeff Reuter, brothers of the groom, and Mike Helfrich, Dixon.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlor. A three-tiered wedding cake and two groom cakes were served by Mrs. Sam Jones, Dixon. Mrs. Don Rich, Dixon, served the punch while Mrs. Fred Hamburg, Harmon, served coffee. Mrs. Marvin Albrecht, Sterling, attended the gift table and Miss Nina Jones kept registered guests.

The new Mrs. Reuter is a graduate of Ohio High School. Mr. Reuter attended Dixon High School and is presently employed by Raynor Manufacturing Co. The couple is residing in their new home at Chateau Estates.

North's call is a good one

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Both East players in an IMP match elected to open with three spades, both Souths overcalled with four diamonds in preference to a takeout double, both Wests raised to four spades and both Norths tried five diamonds.

At both tables this was passed around to West. One West player decided to pass on the theory that his partner just wasn't going to have any play for five spades and that, maybe, the five-diamond contract would not be made.

The other West reasoned that while five spades would surely wind up in the soup the five-diamond contract would make and that a sacrifice bid was indicated.

It was an unfortunate decision, since South had to lose three tricks in his diamond contract. However, change the North-South cards a trifle and the decision would have been a mighty good one.

The really good bid with the hand was North's five

Wife confesses secret thoughts

Dear Ann Landers: Something has been bothering me and I need your help. My husband and I have been married for six years. We get along pretty well together—better than most of our married friends.

My problem is in the bedroom. Unless I imagine my husband is someone else (film star, TV personality, political figure) I'm unable to achieve complete sexual satisfaction. This has made me feel terribly guilty. After all, my husband is the one I love. Why must I pretend I'm with another man?

I shared my shameful secret with my husband and he wasn't at all rattled. In fact, he seemed amused and said, "Forget it!" Please give me your views, Ann—Guilt Complex.

Dear G.C.: Take your husband's advice. He might be fantasizing, too, for all you know.

A great philosopher once said, "Each and every one of us has secret thoughts that would shame hell." I believe it's true. And this applies to every living member of the human race—no matter how saintly.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night I went to see a film I won't name. I am 28 years old and it scared the living daylight out of me.

It was a Saturday night and the theater was filled with children who had been brought by their parents.

In once scene there was a terrible fire. The actors were choking and gasping for breath. A little kid next to me (about 8) began to cry, "Mommy, I'm scared." "Mommy," shouted, "Shut up and let me watch the picture." Across the aisle, two very young children (about 3 and 4) were screaming. Their father slapped them and yelled, "Behave yourselves."

Please say a word to these imbeciles who call themselves parents.—Disgusted

Dear D.: It wouldn't help—because they're imbeciles. Perhaps there should be more effective regulation by the industry, such as "no one under 16 admitted." Are you listening, Jack Valenti?

Dear Ann Landers: When I told my mother I was going to write to you, she said, "Don't bother. Ann receives so many letters yours will probably never get beyond her fifth secretary." But I'm writing anyway.

My problem is prison. Well, not really. But I feel so shut in it's the same thing. My husband and I are in our early 20s and have a year-old son who is adorable.

When Bob comes home after work he wants to eat dinner right away—no conversation, no playing with the boy, just eat fast and rush to the newspaper and TV.

He doesn't want to go anywhere, won't let me ask people in, refuses to go to church or even to a movie. We do nothing and see no one—just each other.

Wanting a man's point of view, I discussed this with my dad. He said I should make friends on my own and become involved in anything that interests me. But I'm afraid my husband wouldn't like it if I went out in the evening without him.

Please advise me. I'm so bored, I can't see straight.—Prison Without Bars

Dear P.W.B.: Bob sounds like a loner and those types rarely change. But you shouldn't have to live like a hermit just because your husband is anti-social.

Take your dad's advice. But make sure the interests you pursue don't take you away from home more than two evenings a week. Select activities and friends who are non-threatening to him. Stick with the women and stay away from the men.

LAY OFF LAYERS

The layered look is still with us, and it's just about at the stage of the ridiculous. Keep in mind when you're thinking about getting on the fashion bandwagon that unless you're built on the tall, spare lines of a model, you will probably have trouble carrying off too much of a good thing.

Quaco admitted to the lesser charge as a result of a negotiated plea worked out with the state's attorney's office. Judge Moore stipulated, under terms of Quaco's probation, that he not be allowed to drink during the five-year period.

Amboy school enrollment drops by 22 students

AMBOY—Enrollment has dropped in the Amboy Community District this year, according to sixth-day figures announced by Supt. Dr. Donald Skidmore this week.

There are 22 fewer students enrolled during the first week of school for the 1975-76 year than in same period last year.

Maine adolescent center and Illinois agency sue each other

CHICAGO (AP)—Allegations that Illinois wards were abused at the Elan Adolescent Treatment Center are the subject of two suits—one filed by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services against the Maine facility and one filed by Elan against DCFS.

The DCFS suit was filed in Chicago Tuesday in U.S. District Court, a day after Elan officials filed suit in Maine against the department.

Elan officials are suing DCFS, its director Mary Lee Leahy and the five members of an evaluation team that visited Elan last July. The suit asks for $10 million in damages for defamation of character, breach of contract and interference with business.

DCFS, on the other hand, charges in a suit naming Elan and three of its officials as defendants that 11 Illinois wards were physically and mentally mistreated at the center. The department wants $750,000 in damages and the return of $37,000 paid to the facility for child care services.

Elan officials called a news conference Wednesday in Chicago to deny the DCFS charges. Accusations made by Mrs. Leahy and the evaluation team were "lies, half-truths, innuendo and falsehoods," they said.

On July 31, Mrs. Leahy announced that all 11 Illinois wards at Elan were being removed after an inspection by a department evaluation team. Since that time, three wards returned voluntarily.

The team's report was released Sunday by Mrs. Leahy, who said mistreatment of children at Elan included "numerous brutalities... beatings, use of straitjackets, forced ditch digging and use of 'electric sauce'—a mixture of garbage and feces which was poured over the heads of

Tory Leader

Chicago, New York City, and Washington, D.C., are preparing to welcome Britain's Conservative Party leader during her visit to the United States, scheduled to start this Saturday. The woman who defeated former Prime Minister Edward Heath and four other male challengers to become head of the Tories is an outspoken critic of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's policies. As head of the Conservative Party, she would run against Wilson if national elections were held in Britain. A poll taken last month revealed that the Conservatives would have a decided edge if the elections were held now. The Tory leader has been a member of Parliament since 1959.

State collects $375,000 in welfare fraud crackdown

SPRINGFIELD—Thousands of fraudulently collected welfare dollars paid out in fiscal year 1975 have been recovered by the Illinois Department of Public Aid, according to a recent report by the state aid agency's Bureau of Special Investigations.

The report, compiled in August, revealed that court-ordered restitution netted the agency $375,000, just under half of the $754,295 known to have been paid out in excess welfare assistance during the fiscal year ending June 30.

Of the 361 welfare fraud cases referred by the Illinois Department of Public Aid to county state's attorneys throughout Illinois (other than Cook County), more than 200 of these cases ended with a guilty verdict. Penalties imposed ranged from imprisonment to repayment of the stolen funds.

Most found guilty of welfare fraud had deliberately failed to report a change in financial status while continuing to collect monthly welfare checks to which they were no longer entitled.

Welfare recipients are required to report any change in income or family size to their local public aid office within a five-day time period, or prior to the expenditure of funds received.

By deliberately leaving new income unreported, some families on Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) were able to accumulate thousands of dollars in excess assistance.

The offense, willful intent to defraud the state, carries a maximum penalty of one year in prison and/or a $1,000 fine. In most cases, defendants are ordered to repay excess funds in monthly installments and to serve 12 to 24 months on probation.

The most severe penalty, according to the public aid report, was imposed on Gladys Shelton, Peoria, who was found guilty of welfare fraud on May 7. Shelton was ordered to serve a six-month jail sentence concurrently with a two to six year prison term from a previous felony conviction. Four other persons convicted of welfare fraud also were sentenced to prison.

In January 1975, the Illinois Department of Public Aid instituted a policy to refer fraud cases to the attorney general for restitution. In the first six months of this year, 84 cases were referred for prosecution, resulting in repayments of $11,074 by four welfare fraud defendants. Other cases are still pending.

Public Aid investigators predict that many more fraud cases will be uncovered this year because of the statewide welfare hotline, a toll-free number where anyone can report suspected welfare abuse in confidence.

Since the hotline was installed on May 23, 1,548 calls have been received, an average of 516 calls a month. As a result of these calls, 382 cases have been referred for investigation in Cook County and 139 suspected cases of welfare fraud are being investigated downstate.

Kung Fu circular in shape and spirit

By DAVID LOVEKIN

Kung Fu (Chinese boxing) is circular in shape and spirit, representing one approach to resolving the conflict of mind and body. As the dynamic extension of Chinese philosophy, its evolution encompasses a span of 1,500 years. In ancient times Chinese monks utilized Kung Fu as a partial tool to make clumsy the actions of attackers. Breathing techniques central to Kung Fu developed from Taoist yoga and provided a meditational base to the art. Lyrical and dance-like in quality, complex combinations of circular hand and foot cadences are combined with evasive leaping, falling, spinning, and balancing. Thus Kung Fu attains an aesthetic dimension. Singing, painting, and flower arranging are one with Kung Fu. And it is this concept which is most difficult for westerners to grasp.

The study of self defense in the west is invariably inundated with concerns for practicality; not so, in the east. Echoing Henry David Thoreau, "What is done well, is done forever," a discipline becomes an art when it is done well for the sake of doing it well. Its value is completely internal, a system complete, in-and-of-itself and self-justifying. In short, the meaning of a work of art is the work of art itself. It is, thus, not surprising that Kung Fu reveals circular movement, for in ancient cultures the circle has long stood for the perfect, for the self-contained and infinite.

Although Kung Fu is relative to many aspects of Chinese philosophy, it is particularly relevant to Taoism. Often, Taoist monks were its most enthusiastic practitioners. In later Taoist cosmology, about 200-300 B.C., the universe is divided into two principles, yin and yang. This concept is represented by a circle divided by a wavy line through the middle. This emblem may be seen on Union Pacific railway cars, a remnant of Chinese labor on the railroad. Yin, the female principle, represents the dark, the low (such as valleys), the passive (not in a pejorative sense but in the sense of receptivity) and the moon. As is revealed in the symbol, where yang advances, yin recedes, but yin's recession is also an advancement, for all is circular, The Way. The Way is Tao and Tao has all names, yet is nameless and ubiquitous.

These natural principles have surprising application in Kung Fu. Lao Tzu, the putative founder of Taoism speaks of the Doctrine of Inaction (Wu Wei) wherein the spirit attempts to return to its original nature and to become as an Uncarved Block. In this sense we achieve by not doing and we draw upon internal strength — Chi (matter-energy, internal force). Thus, as in the yin yang symbol, advance and recession become united as they in fact always are; but it is this realization that is all important. As Lao Tzu explains, "Water, which of all things is the most yielding, can overcome rock, which of all things is most hard." It is thus imperative to deal with force by doing nothing, which is, of course, something. As cycles of aggression unfortunately may require intervention, we must only intervene with sadness. To act otherwise is to violate one's original nature.

Thus Kung Fu, in contradistinction with Karate and Tae Kwan Do, can never be considered a sport. The purpose of a sport is bifurcation: the field is to be divided in terms of winners and losers. Competition abounds. However, the purpose of Kung Fu, or any artistic ritual, is to unite self with not-self and those aspects of not-self itself. The practitioner of Kung Fu does not callous his knuckles and limbs, a practice which often ushers in painful arthritic conditions in later years. Drawing upon Chi or internal force renders this barbaric practice unnecessary. Further as external, brute, muscular force is set aside, mastery flowers with age.

Saturday course in

Kung Fu at Sauk Valley

A class offering instruction in Kung Fu, a form of Chinese martial arts, will be taught at Sauk Valley College on 15 consecutive Saturday mornings beginning Sept. 20.

James Barber, assistant dean for adult and continuing education, said the course, which will meet in the SVC gymnasium from 9 a.m. until noon, will be taught by David Lovekin.

Lovekin, an assistant professor of philosophy at SVC, said instruction will emphasize the philosophical aspects of this ancient Chinese art. He said he will stress the performance of Kung Fu as an art form—as well as a martial art. Although Kung Fu offers a formidable system of self defense, the intellectual discipline implied in this art will be emphasized.

Students taking the class will earn one semester hour of general studies credit. Tuition for the course is $15. Interested persons may register in the Office of the Registrar at the college or at the first class session.

Never intended to kill President, Fromme contends

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) A Manson trial attorney says Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme confided during a jailhouse visit that she never intended to kill President Ford when she aimed a loaded gun at him.

"What are they mad about?" attorney Daye Shinn quoted Miss Fromme as asking. "The gun didn't go off."

Shinn said in an interview Tuesday that Miss Fromme, still loyal to mass murderer Charles Manson, claims she was seeking attention for Manson and three women followers she feels were unjustly convicted in the 1969 Sharon Tate murders.

The attorney quoted Miss Fromme as saying of the Ford incident here last Friday: "I wasn't going to shoot him. I just wanted to get some attention for a new trial for Charlie and the girls."

Miss Fromme, 26, was charged with the attempted murder of the President after she pointed a .45-caliber semi-automatic pistol at Ford from a distance of only two feet during a presidential visit to the California capital.

Shinn, a Los Angeles lawyer who represented Susan Atkins in the 1970 Manson trial, said Miss Fromme also said she intended to serve as her own attorney if brought to trial.

Later Tuesday, U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. McBride issued a sweeping publicity "gag" order at the request of Miss Fromme's attorney, federal Public Defender E. Richard Walker.

McBride said the order applied to Miss Fromme, Walker, grand jury witnesses and federal, state and local law enforcement officials. He said violators would be subject to contempt of court proceedings.

Jug fishing is restful way to fill your creel

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — No need to slave over a fishing rod in the burning sun. Relax in the boat, hands free for a tall cool tumbler of your favorite refreshment and let the finny little fellows catch themselves.

Some call it the lazy man's way to angle; but generally it's just plain jugging. All you need is a boat, bait, hooks, a variety of lengths of 100-pound test, sinkers and some plastic milk and laundry bottles.

Get the picture? You rig those jugs to one end of the lines, the hooks, bait, and washers to the other, run a long line jug-to-jug and set them adrift.

Well, actually there is more to it than that. But not much. You need a stream or lake where the current isn't too rapid and you might want to add a little water to the jugs before capping to keep them from spinning in the flow.

Varying the line length lets you fish high and low. Two to six feet are generally productive. And the stoutness of the hooks should match the size of the fish you're after at each depth.

Catfish are favorite jugging targets and whiskey wonders of up to 60 pounds have been taken by jug.

Of course everyone has his own ideas about which bait is best for cat. Among the popular ones are nightcrawlers, chicken liver, spoiled meat, chunks of frozen fish, stink and blood baits, hot dogs and soap.

You know you have a taker when a jug begins to act erratically—assumin you've kept them in sight as you should. Snare it with a boat hook or net and haul your catch aboard. If it looks like a big fellow let him work himself out fighting the jug—instead of you.

In Illinois a fisherman is allowed 50 hooks in the water at a time. That means 50 jugs at one hook each and quite a few more chances to take home a catch than you have with a rod and reel. But 15 jugs are usually enough for most to handle. No sense in overdoing it.

Jugging is permitted on practically all Illinois waters but be sure to check local regulations before you set out.

If you plan to leave the jugs unattended, overnight for example, you must label them with your name and address.

And, to save littering the shoreline, be sure you round them all up before heading home.

Inter-city blacks suffering from diabetes have special needs

CHICAGO (AP) — Inner-city blacks suffering from diabetes have special problems which often are ignored or misunderstood, a health educator asserts.

Complications from the disease are more frequent and severe in this population because of other diseases—such as hypertension and obesity—which beset poor blacks, she said Tuesday.

The educator, Mrs. Jean V. Suren, a nurse clinician at Michael Reese Medical Center, spoke at a symposium on diabetes education sponsored by the local affiliate of the American Diabetes Association.

She described a program which her hospital until recently maintained to help poor diabetes patients—most of them black—maintain a proper diet and take appropriate medications to keep their disease under control.

More than 4 million Americans suffer from diabetes, with blacks and Jews having a slightly higher incidence than the population in general.

Mrs. Suren, who is white, said in an interview that doctors, nurses and other health professionals often are unable to communicate with inner-city residents and other minorities because they do not speak the same language.

For example, she said, some inner-city blacks use the term "fall out" instead of faint and use "fits" for seizures and convulsions.

Unless health workers treat-

We want to thank everyone who sent cards, flowers, memorials, food, offered cars, casket bearers and all who helped us in anyway at the time of our loss. Special thanks to Rev. Holmes for his visits and prayers. Words are not adequate to thank everyone. The family of Don Scholl.

may be cooked with smoked short ribs instead of the traditional salt pork, to avoid excessive fat, she noted.

Emotional factors sometimes complicate diet also, she said, because poor persons may eat a lot of sugar and starches to comfort themselves.

Just getting to a doctor or to a class for diabetics can be a problem for inner-city blacks, she said, because taxi fare or the $1 spent for bus fare may represent "food not on the table."

Those who work with minority diabetics have been handicapped because pharmaceutical firms and organizations concerned with the disease have failed to provide appropriate printed materials, she said.

Publications are aimed at white middle-class suburbanites, Mrs. Suren added.

Ehrlichman refuses to comment on book

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — John Ehrlichman, suntanned and bearded after six months of his new life among the artists along Canyon Road here, might be writing about Watergate. But he's not talking.

His landlady says he's writing a book, and he did not deny a report that he is under contract with Simon and Schuster for a novel said to be autobiographical.

"I just wouldn't comment on it," was his response, made through the cracks in the plank gate of the high adobe wall at his fashionable hilltop cottage.

Unlike other main characters in the nation's Watergate drama, Richard M. Nixon's former chief domestic adviser and long-time political lieutenant has shunned the lecture circuit and refused interviews.

In a grocery store conversation — he does his own shopping — he reasoned that if he grants one interview he'll be hounded. "And I would have broken faith with about 20 others who have asked and have been refused," he said.

Ehrlichman lives alone here; his wife is still in Seattle. Disbarred by the Supreme Court and facing two federal prison terms, he awaits the long process of court appeals. At age 50, he has traces of gray in his black beard and moustache.

He rents from Margaret Twyman, 60, who lives next door. "He strikes me as a very decent fellow. He's a good tenant. He's growing vegetables over there and taking care of the lawn," she said.

"He commented one time he was writing a book, and I guess he is," she said. "I don't hear any typing over there, so maybe he's writing it in long-hand."

Mrs. Twyman, incidentally, lived in the Watergate Apartments in Washington, D.C., before she moved to Santa Fe last October, leaving a job with the State Department for one with the National Park Service here. But she said she never met Ehrlichman in Washington.

Thomas A. Brown, a remodeler and craftsman, said he sold her the houses for about $65,000. The Ehrlichman cottage has one bedroom, corner fireplaces, Mexican tiles and an impressive view, he said.

This area's history dates to Spanish colonists in 1590, and the neighborhoods, including Ehrlichman's, are disorderly collections of old adobe houses and dirt roads. The Spanish-speaking neighbors are slowly selling to newcomers, many of them artists or owners of stores specializing in craft items. A 90-unit condominium is planned across the road.

The beard doesn't hide Ehrlichman in Santa Fe, which despite its 40,000 population and cosmopolitan residents, retains a small-town neighborliness.

But there's a tradition of leaving people alone that has let other celebrities, from John Wayne to poet Alan Ginsberg, pass through seemingly without notice.

Ehrlichman plays tennis, goes to quiet parties and frequents the more intimate restaurants. Meanwhile, his wife, Jeanne, has taken a job with the Seattle Symphony. She declines all comment about her relationship with her husband.

At least some of their five children have visited Ehrlichman here, and their youngest son, Robert, played guitar and sang for a while at a casual Canyon Road restaurant called "The Bistro."

William Kirschke, the young conductor of the Orchestra of Santa Fe, says on the basis of a conversation at a social gathering that Ehrlichman's knowledge of music is impressive. They talked about the Santa Fe Opera's production of "Falstaff," which Ehrlichman saw.

The ethic on Canyon Road, expressed time and again, is you don't talk politics with John Ehrlichman or you'll ruin the party.

"He's laid back. He's got some dues to pay," said a bearded musician. "But who am I to say how much?"

A waitress who has served him at a coffee house said, "I don't like him, but that's just politics. Heck, all he does here is eat."

His postman, Johnny Garcia, said, "He's nice to me. We talk about the weather. I think he's had enough problems as it is. Why try to bring Watergate up?"

Perhaps in response to the "live and let live" attitude, the Ehrlichman of the streets of Santa Fe is nothing like the scowling witness of the Senate Watergate hearings two years ago. He has a ready smile and a manner that one lady shopper described as "very charming."

Politics can be serious business in this state capital where 37 per cent of the jobs are with state government.

Ehrlichman's initial explanation of why he moved to Santa Fe was that he wanted to do personal penance by volunteering his legal knowledge of land problems to the Pueblo Indians. But the governing body of the eight northern tribes turned him down.

So did U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica when Ehrlichman attorney Ira M. Lowe proposed the Indian service as an alternative to Ehrlichman's 2½-to 8-year prison sentence.

FCC flooded with mail on religious broadcasting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission seems unable to stop an avalanche of mail urging it not to do something it never considered doing.

The letters and postcards involving religious broadcasting total about 1.3 million, says Harry Shockro, the FCC's chief of administrative services, who oversees the mail.

But that's 600,000 more than the estimate on Aug. 1, when the commission explained in a public notice that there was never any question of banning religious broadcasting from the airwaves, as almost all the letter writers feared.

The FCC made the explanation in denying a petition for a freeze on applications by religious institutions for television or FM radio channels reserved for educational stations. Two Los Gatos, Calif., broadcast consultants, Jeremy D. Lansman and Lorenzo W. Milam, contended that the assignment of more than one educational channel in a community to a religious group deprived minority groups of access to the scarce channels.

Their petition, filed last Dec. 5, brought the snowballing avalanche of mail and phone calls to the FCC.

The FCC, in denying it, said: "As a government agency, the commission is enjoined by the First Amendment to observe a stance of neutrality toward religion, acting neither to promote nor to inhibit religion."

The FCC pointed out that the case never did not involve religious programming on any commercial network or station. It involved only the channels set aside for educational use.

And the two consultants have insisted repeatedly that they were not against religious broadcasting but only those institutions which use channels to present a one-sided view.

But the mail continued unabated, spurred by many ministers, who continued to exhort their churchgoers from their pulpits or in church bulletins to write the FCC in protest.

The 1.3 million letters and postcards dwarf the previous high for mail to the FCC, 110,000 letters when the FCC was considering last year whether to ban advertising from children's TV shows.

HONG KONG (AP) — Actor Mickey Rooney, who has been married and divorced seven times, claims he's finally found his dream girl and will marry her later this year, a Hong Kong newspaper says.

The tabloid Star said Rooney's bride-to-be is Jan Chamberlain, a 25-year-old singer from Los Angeles. The couple met 10 months ago at a party.

"At long last I've found the girl of my dreams," the paper quoted Rooney as saying. Rooney is in Hong Kong for location shooting of a movie, "From Hong Kong with Love."

The Star said his bride-to-be commented: "Poor Mickey—I'll be so different for him. Understanding is so very important. He's very brilliant, creative and talented—he's just had bad luck in the past."

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Former Ambassador W. Averell Harriman has been awarded the U.S. Military Academy's Sylvanus Thayer award for outstanding service to the nation.

Asked at a news conference Tuesday why he thought he was being so honored, the former U.S. ambassador at large and former governor of New York replied, "I've lived long enough, I guess. I'm thrilled by it."

Past winners include the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Bob Hope, the Rev. Billy Graham and General of the Army Omar Bradley.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Apollo 17 scientist-astronaut Harrison H. Schmitt says he'll run for the Republican Senate nomination in New Mexico next year.

Schmitt, who entered the astronaut program in 1965 and explored the moon's Taurus-Littrow Valley in December 1972, said Congress needs people with background, experience and education in technology to solve "fundamental issues facing the nation today."

If successful in the GOP primaries, Schmitt probably would have to face veteran Democrat Joseph M. Montoya.

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there anything else that a person could drink that is hot besides water to keep warm? It is not cold enough to put the heaters going, so I drink coffee or tea, and then I have to go to the bathroom in a hurry. This gets to be a problem on the way home from town. Is the coffee injuring my kidneys?

I don't know how much I drink, but it is quite a bit, and I have to cut out coffee before and after dinner or else I don't sleep.

I am now on Stelazine, Dilantin and Navane.

DEAR READER — Your letter reminds me of my experience in a city hospital clinic attended by a well-known medical university staff. I kept seeing patients who came to the clinic because they had burning in the pit of the stomach and ulcer symptoms. After they had been extensively studied they were put on tranquilizers. No one asked them if they drank coffee or how much. Usually they were washing their tranquilizers down with coffee. Since coffee contains caffeine, a powerful brain stimulant, the two counteracted each other.

Often these people recovered entirely after they stopped coffee and threw away the tranquilizers. The stomach symptoms were caused by the coffee.

No, coffee is not injuring your kidneys. It does stimulate the kidneys to act, and the amount of liquid you drink does the rest. All that water has to go somewhere, and the principal way of eliminating it is through the kidneys.

You might not need those medicines you are taking or in such quantity if you give up coffee entirely, which I strongly recommend in your case. The drugs have the opposite actions to the drug in your coffee and tea, caffeine.

For something hot to drink, you can use decaffeinated coffee. You might substitute this part of the time as you withdraw from all that coffee you are drinking. Large amounts of coffee do induce an anxiety state in some people. Drop down to two cups a day, then one, then none, and replace as you go with decaffeinated products if you wish.

Other substitutes include hot lemonade, bouillon, clear soups and if you want to go way out, hot sassafras tea.

When a heavy coffee drinker stops abruptly he can have headaches and withdrawal-type reactions. The body gets used to all that caffeine, so stop gradually.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have never been able to get a satisfactory answer to the question of why I have to get up two or three times during the night to urinate when I drink nothing before going to bed. Where does the water come from?

DEAR READER — Your body is over half water. Over 70 per cent of the weight of your muscles is water, and you have water in the fluids in all the tissues.

When you lie down, if you have an abundant amount of fluid in your body, feet, ankles or abdomen that has accumulated over the day, the kidneys will simply filter out more water from your blood.

Rookie outfielder paces Cub victory

CHICAGO (AP)—Rookie outfielder Joe Wallis of the Chicago Cubs earned the nickname "Tarzan" for his diving exploits and he just might keep it by swinging in the centerfield vines of Wrigley Field.

"Diving is my hobby," Wallis said Wednesday after socking a pair of triples to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 7-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, the team he cheered for as a youngster.

"I dive off cliffs, quarries, hotel roofs, anything. I enjoy it," said the 23-year-old who has played only a week in the major leagues but has managed to do it all—with a home run, his two triples, a pair of doubles, a steal of home and even throwing a man out at home.

He threw Reggie Smith out at the plate in the fourth inning when the Cardinals got back into the game with a four-run rally. But the Cub bullpen shut them out the rest of the way, with rookie Buddy Schultz picking up the victory and Darold Knowles his 13th save of the season.

Wallis, a product of St. Louis who came out of Southern Illinois University, tripled in a two-run first inning and tripled again in a four-run third capped by Andy Thornton's two-run homer.

Manager Jim Marshall, who said he's going to put a stop to Wallis' diving, is impressed with the youngster.

"He plays hard and runs hard," said Marshall. "He also plays a shallow centerfield but is great going back on balls."

Thornton's homer was his ninth in the last 17 games, giving him 16 for the season. He also had a double Wednesday and has hit safely in 17 of his last 18 games to boost his average to .298.

Earlier in the season Thornton, who suffered a fractured wrist in spring training, was platooned at first base. He has won the job outright.

"I'd have to say so," said Marshall. "He certainly has been productive. He's not swinging defensively anymore. He's not afraid to swing and miss, where he was before. But he's not missing very often, either."

Despite the hitting heroics of Wallis and Thornton, Knowles was the key in the Cub scheme.

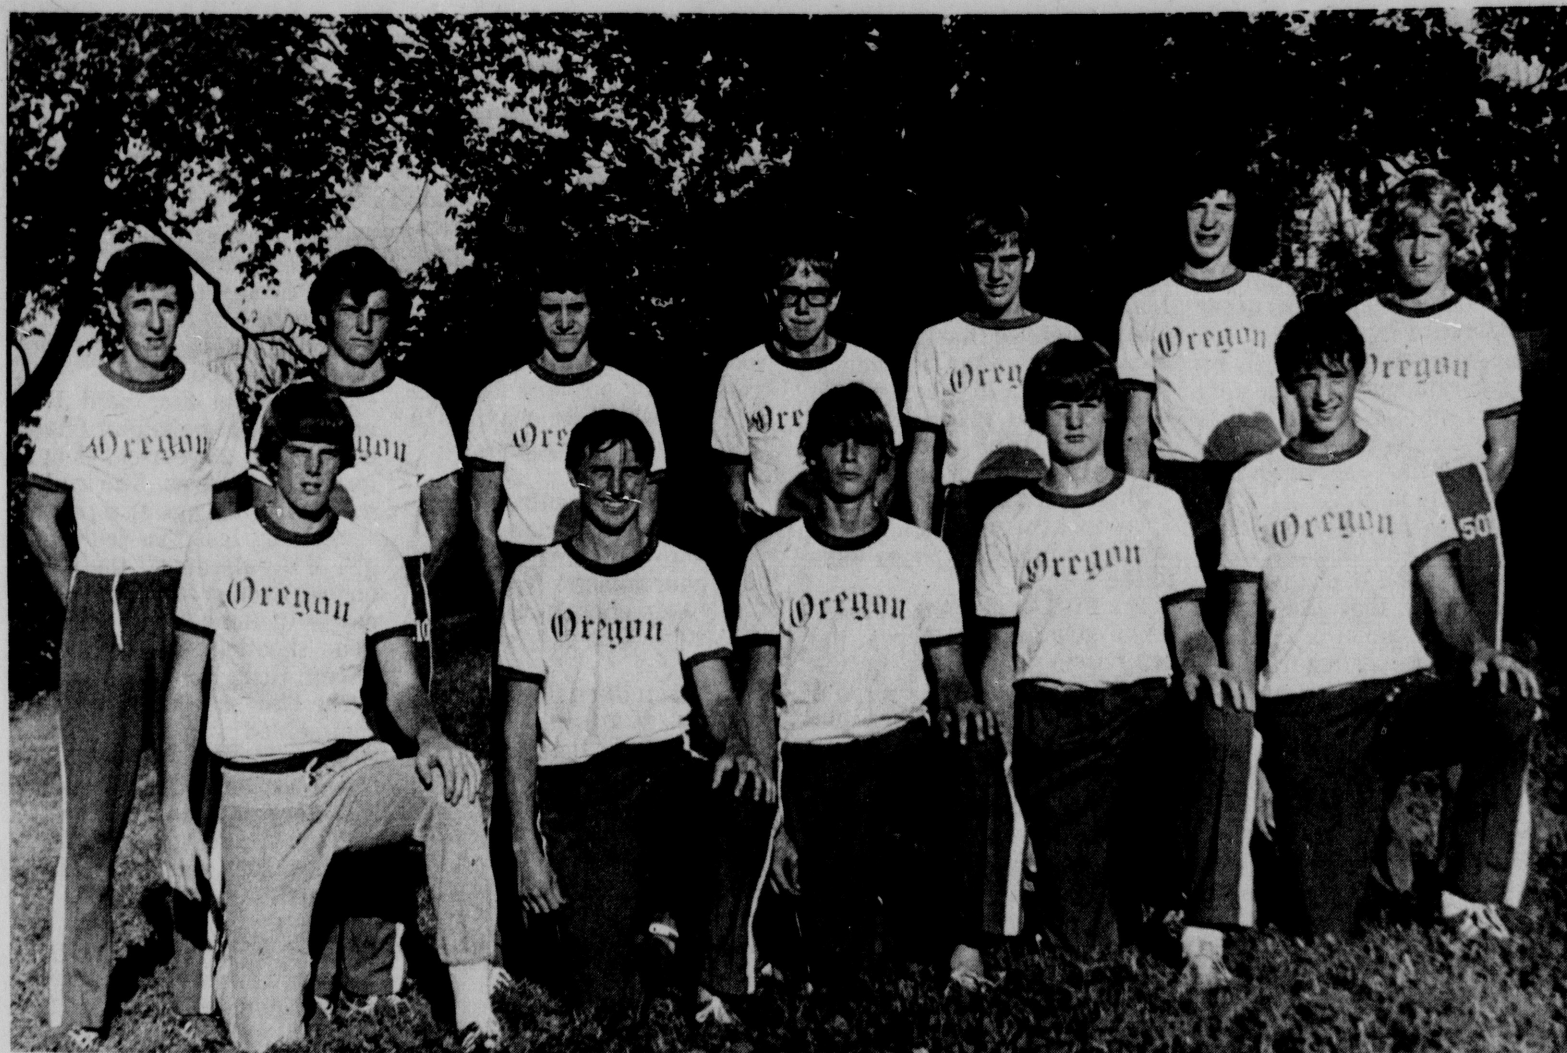

He relieved Tom Detmore in the seventh inning with one out and the bases loaded. He struck out Buddy Bradford in spite of a memory flashback and got Ken Reitz, who earlier had homered, to ground into a force play.

"Sure I remembered it," said Knowles, who then explained that the only time he has given up a bases-loaded homer in the majors was to Bradford.

"Buddy was with Cleveland, I was with the Washington Senators," said Knowles. "He hit it a ton. I punched him out twice today but I still respect him a lot."

Knowles ended the game by striking out Bradford.

The Cubs hold a 10-7 edge over the Cardinals this season and the two teams wind up playing against each other today with Rick Reuschel, 10-15, facing Bob Forsch, 14-9.

Death threat mars Chile-Sweden net match

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Sweden, with a reported 1,200 policemen ready, may be without an opponent in the semifinals of the Davis Cup tennis championships.

Sweden is to meet Chile at Baastad, Sweden, Sept. 19-21, but at least one Chilean player, Jaime Fillol, has refused to play in the Scandinavian country because of several reported threats on his life.

Hernan Basagotia, president of the Chilean Tennis Federation, and other officials were reported Wednesday to be attempting to communicate with other team members to determine if they still plan to go to Sweden or whether they will follow Fillol's decision.

A final decision was expected sometime today.

Refusal to play in Sweden would mean Chile would forfeit its semifinal match.

"We are very surprised by these confused reports because on Monday the Chileans indicated that they would definitely come," said Ove Malmquist, president of the Swedish Tennis Federation.

Because of the reported threats against Fillol and the other Chileans, Swedish authorities reportedly have assigned 1,200 policemen to guard the playing area and the visiting team in unprecedented security measures.

The Chilean federation had asked that the match be changed to a neutral country, complaining of threats against the life of the Chilean players and reports of massive demonstrations during the semifinal to protest Chile's ruling military junta.

But Davis Cup Committee authorities and officials of the International Tennis Federation ordered Chile to play in Baastad or forfeit its semifinal match.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Cobras and the Boston Astros played a 2-2 tie here Wednesday night in the first game of their American Soccer League playoff series.

The two teams meet again Saturday in Boston and if they are tied at the end of that game, overtime will be played.

The Cobras' Vito Colonna scored both of his team's goals. The Boston scoring came from "Boom Boom" Barbosa and Jose Neto.

Cleveland outshot Boston 16-13, but Boston goalie Emilio Costa had 10 saves.

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A federal judge has appointed a Scranton attorney to oversee the business of the bankrupt Pocono Downs Race Track in Luzerne County.

The order by U.S. District Court Judge William Nealon gives attorney Daniel Houlihan the power to conduct all the track's business, including the hiring and firing of employees and payment of salaries.

The track, located in Plains Township, filed for bankruptcy in October 1974. The federal court said its debts exceeded $200,000.

Tanana 'sweeps' by White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — "The sweeper was working good," said California pitcher Frank Tanana. "I got seven or eight strikeouts on the curve ball."

The 22-year-old left-hander was talking about his curve on the outside corner as he held the Chicago White Sox to four hits Wednesday night and posted a 4-2 victory for the Angels.

Tanana fanned nine batters and walked none to boost his major league-leading total to 238 strikeouts. Should he continue his pace, he would become the youngest pitcher to gain the title since Herb Score in 1955.

Tanana retired the first 11 hitters he faced until Jorge Orta doubled in the fourth. The only other blemishes came in the fifth inning when Lamar Johnson smashed his first major league home run and Bill Melton's solo shot, his 14th of the year, with two out in the ninth inning.

"Those pitches should have gone out," said Tanana, who had 84 strikes and 42 balls against the White Sox. "But I'm only worried about winning. Sure, I want to keep my earned run average down, but a win is good enough."

Tanana, 15-7, may have had an even better season had he escaped a broken finger on his glove hand and a pulled hamstring, both of which cost him at least seven starts.

But he said, "If the season were to end now, it would be a 20-game season for me. Seventeen or 18 wins—that's a helluva of a season."

Neither California Manager Dick Williams nor Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner had enough praise for the youngster.

"I haven't seen a lefthander with such control," said Williams, who also coached Oakland ace Vida Blue. "He's not a thrower, he's a pitcher. He has velocity and he sure can spot the ball."

Tanner said, "He's got a great future at 22."

The light-hitting Angels also mounted a 14-hit attack and chased loser Jim Kaat, 20-12, in the fifth inning.

California took a 1-0 lead in the second when Dave Chalk lofted his third home run of the season into the left field stands.

The Angels added two runs in the fourth as Winston Llenas singled, moved to third on Andy Etchebarren's single, and scored on Mike Miley's single to left. Etchebarren came home on Dave Collins' double.

Singles in the fifth by Lee Stanton, John Balaz and Llenas, who had three hits, made it 4-0.

The Sox pulled to within two runs on Johnson's homer in the fifth and Melton's smash, but otherwise Tanana kept the White Sox in check throughout the game.

The White Sox start a five-game road trip Friday as they face the Texas Rangers. Jesse Jefferson, 4-9, will pitch for Chicago against Ferguson Jenkins, 16-15.

Kansas City will host the Angels for a doubleheader Friday. Don Kirkwood, 5-4, and Bill Singer, 7-14, will pitch for California against Doug Bird, 9-5, and Al Fitzmorris, 14-10, for the Royals.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gene Prado, 133½ pounds, of Los Angeles, won a split decision on Tony Martinez, 137, of Tucson, Ariz., in a 10-round fight Wednesday night.

Packers duel the 49ers

GREEN BAY, Wis.— Home, sweet home?

The Packers would like to think it will be, considering what has befallen them in the last three weeks, all of which have found them plying their perilous profession away from the compact confines of Green Bay's Lambeau Field.

Victims of the Chiefs in Kansas City last time out (31-3), following a 20-17 overtime loss to the New England Patriots in Milwaukee and a 27-10 misadventure in Cincinnati, the Green and Gold are counting upon a return to the familiar for winning inspiration, when they encounter the San Francisco 49ers in the 15th annual Bishop's Charities Game, Saturday night.

Admittedly, the circumstances for interring that three-game losing streak in Lambeau Field's luxuriant turf, impeccably groomed for the occasion by Groundskeeper John Proski, could be more auspicious. The 49ers flashed an uncommonly hot hand in their most recent venture Sunday, blitzing the highly regarded Denver Broncos, 44-10.

While the Packers were being sabotaged by a 21-point barrage from the Chiefs in the first quarter, the 49ers were visiting similar carnage upon the Broncos, torpedoing Denver with a 23-point second period enroute to a 30-10 halftime lead. Major items in the San Francisco assault were a pair of Norm Snead touchdown passes to an old Packer enemy, former Dallas Cowboy Bob Hayes, as Snead hit on 12 of 16 for 139 yards.

Saturday night's contest, long since a sellout (56,267), will be only the second pre-season meeting between the Packers and Prospectors. The first was played in 1959 and the Packers emerged with a 24-17 decision, thus providing their new head coach, Vince Lombardi, with his first victory as a pro head coach. Green Bay had lost its first start under Lombardi to the Bears a week earlier, 19-16.

This week's rivals have met 39 times in league play since San Francisco came into the National Football League from the old All-America Football Conference in 1950. San Francisco leads the series, 20-18-1, and holds a two-game winning streak in the rivalry, having won back-to-back decisions in Candlestick Park in 1973 (20-6) and 1974 (7-6).

The Packers' last victory over the 49ers came at Milwaukee in 1972 (34-24) when Green Bay was on the way to top NFC's Central Division championship.

The Packers will be in search of their first victory in the Bishop's series since 1969. After going 8-1-1 in the first 10 games of the charity classic, they now have lost four in a row following a 31-31 tie with the New York Giants in 1970.

Coach Bart Starr, hopeful of a victory over the 49ers to provide a successful springboard into 1975's regular season opener the following week, feels the Kansas City unhappiness should be a valuable learning experience for his young team.

"There's a lesson in this, too," he said in Saturday night's somber aftermath. "And that's that you can't spot a team all those points in the first quarter and expect to come back. Even good teams have trouble doing that, solid teams that have been together for a while. We don't have the kind of team strength to spot a team 21 points at this stage."

"Some of what happened to us in this game can be attributed to falling behind as much as we did as quickly as we did. We just cannot afford to make that kind of mistakes," Starr added. "The tempo of the game was set early and we were running up hill the rest of the night."

Although he declined to describe Saturday night's date with the 49ers as "a do or die proposition," the Packer coach did say, "I do feel very strongly about the need to win because it leads to a winning atmosphere."

NOTE WORTHY:

Saturday night's loss was the Packers' first ever to Kansas City. They had beaten the Chiefs three times, those victories including that 35-10 triumph in Super Bowl at Los Angeles, and tied them once in four previous meetings.

Dave Purefory, given his first starting assignment at right tackle, responded with a pair of quarterback sacks and now leads the Packer defensive unit with three. Steve Okoniewskik also recorded his first sack of the season.

Rookie Punter Damien Nygaard, the former Australian pro gridder, averaged 40.5 yards for six kicks. His longest effort was 48 yards, a figure he attained twice.

Ken Payne, after catching only two passes in his first three games, now has caught seven in the last two and shares the Packers' pass receiving lead with John Brockington. Payne, who caught three for 32 at Kansas City, and Brockington have nine receptions apiece.

Quarterback John Hadl has become a 50 per cent passer for the first time this pre-season after hitting on 13 of 20 attempts for 112 yards against Kansas City. He now has completed 42 of 84 attempts, exactly 50 per cent, for 408 yards and two touchdowns.

Placekicker Chester Marcol, who hit on a 32-yarder against the Chiefs, has made 3 of 4 field goal attempts from inside 50 yards. He is 3 of 6 overall.

Larry Hefner made his second fumble recovery of the pre-season in the second quarter, blunting a Kansas City drive at the Green Bay 25. Cornerback Perry Smith, filling in for the injured Ken Ellis, saved a touchdown in the fourth quarter, deflecting a Mickey Livingston pass away from the Chiefs' Andy Hamilton in the left corner of the end zone.

Running back Terry Wells, making his first extended appearance as a Packer, averaged a substantial 7.2 yards per "handle," rushing for 16 yards in 2 attempts and catching 3 passes for 20 yards. Packer passers have been sacked 14 times in 5 games.

HEY, CHARGER— Billy Vukovich in his dirt roadster begins to go airborne in turn two during 23rd running of Hoosier Hundred in Indianapolis. Vukovich flipped after hitting Pancho Carter's car, but suffered only slight injuries, as the car landed on its wheels. (AP Wirephoto)

Zimmerlein and Kelly

Only 42 points separate Max Zimmerlein and Bob Kelly in the Sycamore Speedway 1975 season's point championship race, and, with only one race remaining in the 1975 season, the championship is still undecided.

The championship race is the closest that Sycamore fans have seen in years and whichever of the two leading contenders finishes ahead in this Saturday's feature event will probably win the crown for 1975.

Zimmerlein, of Lake Holiday, is the current defending champion, having grabbed the crown from Kelly in 1974. Kelly, of LeLand, held the championship in 1973, 1972, and 1968.

At one point in the 1975 season Zimmerlein held a commanding lead, but in the recent weeks Zimmerlein has suffered setbacks while Kelly has consistently finished in the top three. On Saturday night either Zimmerlein or Kelly will emerge the victor.

Both Kelly and Zimmerlein are expected to be strong contenders in the post-season Old Milwaukee Classic which will be held at Sycamore Speedway on Sept. 21. This 250-lap event is an open-competition race, paying a $2,000 first prize. Some of the Midwest's finest drivers are expected to race for the $7,500 total purse.

NFL players reject newest offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wary truce between the National Football League owners and players union could soon break out into open warfare again.

The membership of the NFL Players Association, by a wide margin, has rejected management's proposal for a new contract to replace the one that expired March 31, 1974 and will vote within a week on whether to go on strike.

When the negotiations collapsed last year, the players struck for 62 days during the exhibition season, but returned in time to play the regular 1974 season although they did not have a contract.

However, with the 1975 season scheduled to open in two weeks and rosters expected to be set at 43 players, the owners will not be in the same position they were a year ago—that of playing games with the many rookies and free agents still in camp.

In announcing the vote on the contract as 743 against, 6 for and six teams still to be counted, Ed Garvey, union executive director, declined Wednesday to discuss the possibility of a strike.

"We'll have to see what the players say about it," he said. "The comments in so far as a strike have varied from team to team. Some are militant, while others are conservative."

Garvey said he hoped the vote, which he predicted would reach over 800 against the contract offer when the counting is finished, would convince the 26 owners to return to the bargaining table "and give us an offer we can't refuse."

The major stumbling block to any negotiated contract appears to be the Rozelle compensation rule which the union opposes and has been fighting in the courts, where it has won some preliminary battles.

Garvey said at the news conference that 17 teams voted unanimously against the contract, with dissenting votes coming from Buffalo and Detroit, two each, and Atlanta and Green Bay, one apiece. He said the teams that had not transmitted their votes to headquarters were Chicago, Houston, Minnesota, Philadelphia and the New York Giants.

Later, however, veteran center Bob Johnson, a team spokesman although not a union member, said the Cincinnati Bengals did not vote at all but would have statement in a day or two.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-664: Beth G., aged 38, is very irate.
"Dr. Crane," she protested, "why do you always pick on us wives and defend your own sex?"
"For you say divorce starts in the bedroom."
"But accuse us devoted wives of being largely to blame for the breakup of our marriages."
"Why don't you place the blame on the husbands who violate their marriage vows?"
"Why don't you tell men to ignore the wives of the outside paramours and stay at home nights?"

Illogical Wives
If a wife starved her husband constantly in the dining room, offering him only 1,500 calories per day instead of his normal 3,000, what would happen?
Obviously the natural stomach appetite that God Almighty gave him, would keep him ravenously hungry so he'd become irritable and hypercritical, much like the peptic ulcer husband.

And if his hunger finally was not satisfied at home by his wife he then might visit a restaurant to supplement his wife's meager food rationing.

Would he then heed my advice if I told him to remain at home and starve in his own dining room?
So why should you wives think he will also eagerly come back to you at night to suffer starvation for boudoir cheese-cake in your bedroom?

And when I explain these basic differences in the way the Almighty created man vs. woman, why try to distort my writing or falsely accuse me of "always siding with the men"?

God Almighty created the males of both the human race, as well as of the equine, bovine, canine and other warm blooded species, to have a much greater erotic appetite than do the females thereof!

And you women know that! But refuse to admit it at bedtime!

Yet you gladly surfeit your mate at the dinner table with maybe double what you crave in dining room calories.

Then you suddenly grow blind in the boudoir and think your mate will remain equally surfeited on the starvation erotic rations you offer him!

Why don't you wives use a little more of your IQ and be logical?

You simply cannot starve any creature in either the gastric or erotic realms without an ultimate explosion.

Even cattle and horses, when starving for food, will break down fences and get at the clover or alfalfa or corn in adjacent fields!

And when you try to stifle the sexual urges of a bull or stallion when they see a receptive heifer or filly come into the pasture field, those males grow so violent, they break their halters or even trample the farmers who are trying to restrain them.

Do you wives thus wish to prove that God Almighty was wrong in thus endowing males with more erotic verve than you females possess?

Get help! For when you ration your mate to a starvation menu in the boudoir, you are heading for the divorce court!

"But I'm too tired at night!" you feebly alibi.

Malarky!

Drink two cups of coffee at dinner and stay awake in the boudoir at least for 10 minutes, thus earning the pay checks your devoted husbands faithfully bring home each week!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Only the Newspaper

Today's newspapers talk to young people. Among the very young teens (12-14), 59% read a newspaper—an average that quickly rises to 74% in late teens as youngsters acquire adult needs, habits and outlooks.
